OBJECTIVE

Costas' mission is to co-create with people, organizations, and communities innovative, effective and sustainable solutions to pressing organizational challenges through action research, effective reconstruction, experiential training and systems-wise team building. He accomplishes this by combining his: 1) 25+ years of experience in leading and participating in top-quality action research projects in numerous countries; 2) a passion since childhood and deep knowledge of cooperatives and team dynamics that stems, among others, from his 23+ years of collaboration with the Graduate Institute of Cooperative Leadership (GICL) of the University of Missouri, USA; and 3) training in systems thinking and system dynamics at AKMA (www.akma.gr), one of the most recognized systemic training and therapy centers in Europe. During the last 20 years Costas has worked with people in agribusiness cooperatives and rural communities in co-designing and implementing social and organizational change.
